
Hiroataka Yamauchi

Professor Hiroataka Yamauchi is the former Dean of the Graduate School of Commerce and Management in Hitotsubashi University, which has the longest history of study of commerce in Japan.

Professor Yamauchi is best known for his illustrious research achievements in the field of transportation economics. He has served as a member for various government councils such as the Council of Transport Policy, the Council for Infrastructure Policy, and Public Finance Initiative Promotion Council. He also serves as a board member of The Japan Society of Transportation Economics and the Society of Public Utility Economics, as well as a councilor of Japan Society of Logistics and Shipping Economics.

As the author of numerous books, Professor Yamauchi has published Air Transportation with Kenichi Masui (1990), awarded by The Japan Society of Transportation Economics; Public Regulations and Industry-4: Transportation, with Yoshitsugu Kanemoto (1995); Competition in Airfare (2000); Transportation Economics with Kenzo Takeuchi (2002) awarded by International Association of Traffic and Safety Sciences; Economics and Management in Public Sector (2003), Economics in Transportation Market and Infrastructure with Takehiko Sugiyama, Kenzo Takeuchi and Toshinori Nemoto (2010).

Professor Yamauchi received his M.A. in commerce from Keio University in 1982, and he completed his Ph.D. course in 1985. He was a visiting fellow at the Robert Smith School of Business at the University of Maryland in 2001-2002.